Dear Dr. Guan,

On behalf of the Handling Editor, Daniel Gibbs, I am pleased to inform you that the above paper is accepted for publication.

You will shortly receive an email from our Publisher, Oxford University Press, asking you to register with their Author Services site. This will enable you to select the Publishing Licence of your choice:

1. Standard Licence to Publish: there are no publication charges and the paper will be published under subscription control for twelve months after publication;

2. Oxford Open Licence: article processing charge (APC) will be applied. Oxford Open articles are published under Creative Commons licences.

A step-by-step guide to OUP's Author Licencing system can be found here.

The unedited accepted PDF version of your paper will be published online in the Advance Access section under the heading 'Accepted paper'. This version will be replaced by the final version after editing and proofing. Please note that your accepted PDF paper cannot be published online until you sign and return the Licence to Publish form.

Should you experience any problems during publication of your paper please contact the JXB editorial office quoting your manuscript number.

Please do let us know if you are planning any publicity relating to your paper, such as with your university press office or a blog/social media by emailing j.exp.bot@lancaster.ac.uk

If tweeting please add @JXBot

With many thanks,

Yours sincerely,
